The Sphinx. One of the most remarkable of the ancient monuments of Egypt, how ancient is uncertain, probably 2000 years before the Christian era. Only the head [30 feet high] and the fore-paws [50 feet long] and the back [140 feet long] are seen. All the rest is embedded in the sand. Comely the creature is, fashioned after some ancient mould of beauty, now forgotten. To modern eyes the once-worshipped beast appears a monstrosity, but it fitly guards the greatest of royal sepulchres.

I am having a ripping time here, I wish I had not got to come back so soon. It's not the weather lovely, I am going to see a play on the pier this afternoon. Best
